(3) Inamdars, if considered necy
(4) Such other interests as may be appd by Govt from time to time.

'Agriculture' may perhaps also be omitted, as a fairly large number of agriculturists come in by General election and as they may, under the existing conditions of agricultural development in the State, be expected to be conversant with their needs from a scientific standpoint also.

'Industries and Commerce' may perhaps be retained towards associations like the Chamber of Commerce to send their representatives.
